

Yachting The ME with the WE

Lead a high performing team.

Overview

‘The strength of the wolf is the pack and the strength of the pack is the wolf.’ When you correlate this to business teams, I am in the Team and the Team is in Me. Being a part of a high performing team always requires each team member to be highly contributing. One needs to do what is right for the team. One needs to be highly aware of each member’s needs and the needs to adjust one’s own pace to the team’s pace and this is where comes the metaphor of a yacht. When each ME comes together that’s when the WE shapes itself.

Learning Outcomes

This workshop intends to help learners decipher the building blocks of a team, one’s own strengths in a team, understanding own and team’s pace and understanding factors that create dysfunctional teams. It encourages sharpening skills to motivate, communicate more meaningfully, effectively and engagingly with the team.

Your takeaways

1. Building Blocks of a Highly Functional Team
2. Roles Team Members Play
3. Factors for Dysfunctional Teams – One’s own areas of Dysfunctionality
4. Communicating MEMES
5. Stakeholder Engagement and Team Branding
